Other Opportunities for Travel and Exchange

UNIVERSITY OF WATERLOO Travel and Fieldwork Opportunities

Nature of Exchange

Classical Studies offers a special study-travel course, normally on a semi-annual basis (CLAS 390). In the Spring term students would visit a variety of Mediterranean sites, chiefly in Greece or Italy. The course carries academic credit and is conducted by one of the Departmental faculty members.

For further information on program costs, course offerings, and application information please visit:

- <http://www.classics.uwaterloo.ca/travel.htm>

Third Year Abroad at the University of Waterloo

Nature of Exchange

The Department of French Studies especially encourages students in their third year to study in a French language environment. This may be done through the Waterloo/Trent/Toronto program at the University of Nantes in France, or through the MICEFA exchange at the University of Paris in France. The cost of the year in Nantes is currently similar to the cost of spending a year on campus at Waterloo. In the Paris program, students choose their courses from offerings at 12 universities scattered throughout Paris. Students can also study at the University of Québec in Chicoutimi, where they choose from regular course offerings.

For further information on program costs, course offerings, and application information please visit:
